

Puppet Show

Von Ascheherz

It's all a dark, very dark party, and I'm the partyqueen and wear black, I dance the night along, to forgett,
I drink the through the night, to forgett:
It's all a big show and you all are puppets, you think you are a viewer, a laughter behind the shades, save and superior,
but you're nothing like a bad aktor.
The Puppet Theater must working, the show must go on,
and If you fail, If the yarn go brust, the red curtain go down, and you have to life henceforth behind the headlights of the perfekt show.

Oh lonely puppet,
you wish to live again,
to turn back time,
and live another life.
But the fate poke one's tongue out at you.
All what you have is to abandon the show and find the way to an new stage.